[3] 次の英文は、英語の授業で田中先生(Mr. Tanaka)、高校生のミク(Miku)、留学生のボブ(Bob)が会話している場面である。これを読み、あとの問いに答えなさい。

Mr. Tanaka : Hi, everyone. Today we are going to talk about sleeping. Do you know World Sleep Day(WSD)?

Miku : Yes!

Mr. Tanaka : Oh, really? As you may know, WSD is an annual event and the next Sleep Day is March 15, 2019. Let's think together about it today. Do you know how long Japanese people sleep?

Miku : I read some materials. They say Japanese people sleep for only about six hours and thirty minutes a day on average. To make matters worse, the amount of Japanese people's sleeping time is becoming shorter than before.

Bob : I think it's too short. In my country, the USA, many people sleep for about seven hours and ten minutes a day on average. The amount of Japanese people's sleeping time is the second rank from the bottom in the world.

Mr. Tanaka : I'm also worried about shortage of sleeping. Now, let's think. Why does shortage of sleeping time become a problem?

Bob : The value of sleeping is recovering from the day's  and recharging your body and brain. But I often play computer games until late at night.

Miku : Hey!

Bob : I think it bad for my health. If your body or brain doesn't get a chance to be recharged properly, you're already starting the next day at a disadvantage.

[ I / playing / to play / stop / have to / computer games ] until late at night.

Miku : I haven't played games for one year because my mother threw away my game machine.

Bob : Oh, wow.

Miku : My mother said "If you don't get enough sleep, you will feel depressed and , and you will feel like eating more unhealthy foods like fast food." Now I understand it.

Mr. Tanaka : We had a very good discussion. Let's talk about it again soon. We would like to talk about how to get sleeping time in the following lesson. I would like you to think until next lesson. What do you do to go to bed early at night every day? In my case, for example, I set the alarm for 11 p.m. every day. Please tell me your own rule to go to bed early at night.

問1 本文の内容に一致しているものを選び、番号で答えなさい。

問5 次の質問に英語で答えなさい。

A. What will they talk about in the following lesson?

B. What does Mr. Tanaka do to go to bed early at night every day?

[4] 次の文章を読み、あとの問いに答えなさい。

What are Endangered Animals?

Endangered animals are animals that are in danger of becoming extinct. (1) This means that there will be no more of these animals living on earth. People think an animal is endangered when there are very few of them living.

Some animals are more endangered than others. Based on ア, we have three groups of endangered animals; 1) critically endangered, 2) endangered, and 3) vulnerable. Critically endangered animals are in the most dangerous situation of the three groups. There are also some animals that we can see only in particular places, such as a zoo. (2) These animals are called "extinct in the wild".

How are endangered animals protected?

Many countries all over the world have (3) laws that protect endangered animals. It is often a crime to kill or injure an endangered or protected animal. In the United States there are a lot of laws that protect endangered animals. These laws are part of the Endangered Species Act which was signed into law by President Nixon in 1973. These laws help protect the animals and their habitat. They also have some programs to help animals grow.

In the world there are also (4) wildlife or nature preserves. These preserves are large areas of land where animals and their habitat are protected. Development is very limited or not accepted on the lands. We also cannot do hunting freely. Critically endangered animals are often protected by keeping some of them in a particular place and taking care of them there. This helps scientist to save the species and also helps them to study the animals.

Scientists also study the animals in the wild to understand why their population is getting smaller. With good science, scientists may be able to help a species of animal survive extinction.
